Kaiser-Friedrich-Therme Thermal Bath in Wiesbaden

The mere sight of the Kaiser-Friedrich-Therme in Wiesbaden is like a wellness treatment for your eyes. A thermal bath originally built between 1910 and 1913 by architect A. O. Pauly in Art Nouveau style, the wellness center underwent major renovations in 1999. Today, it's a nude bathing palace. Spanning an area of 1,450 m², the Kaiser-Friedrich-Therme's design was inspired by Roman bath houses with their pillared rooms and elaborate ornamentation. There's no shortage of stylish and charming facilities to choose from. A dry-heat room, a stone-steam bath, a Finnish sauna, a tropical ice-rain area, and a thermal seating pool filled with natural Wiesbaden spring water are just a few examples. There are plenty of wellness treatments such as massages available as well, ensuring that you'll have a sauna experience fit for an emperor.

Highlights

- Exciting Art Tour through Arnhem
- Guided Tour of Rijksmuseum
- Trip to the world-famous Market Hall in Rotterdam
- New itineraries between Passau and Vienna
- Perfect balance between relaxation and sightseeing

Amsterdam, Rotterdam and Arnhem.

Some of the most interesting cities in the Netherlands are Amsterdam, Rotterdam, and Arnhem, especially if you like art and different cultures. Romantic canals in Amsterdam, modern architecture in Rotterdam, or the “green empire” in and around lush Arnhem—each of these cities is renowned for making explorers’ hearts sing. We’ve made an alluring addition to our Amsterdam excursion program—a guided tour of the “Golden Age” which was shaped primarily by an artist from Leiden named from van Rijn, better known as Rembrandt. Rotterdam, on the other hand, is the poster child for the Netherlands’ futuristic side. And Arnhem, capital of the Gelderland province, is a paradise for art-lovers. A visit at the sculpture garden or at the famous Kröller-Müller Museum is an absolute must. What do these three cities all have in common? Amazing shopping and extraordinary culinary culture for one. Each of them is also perfect for taking leisurely strolls, relaxing, and having a great time.

New Citytrip: Danube Citytrip.

Get ready to visit some of Danube’s great cities. Melk is one of the gateways to the Wachau valley. Once you look out over the World Heritage Site from the water, we promise it’s a view you’ll never forget. The State Opera, the Burgtheater, the City Hall, the Parliament building, and the university campus—those are just a few of the architectural masterworks which Vienna is famous for. Bratislava with its lovingly-restored Baroque Gothic Old Town, including the Old Town Hall and St. Martin’s Cathedral (14th century), the largest and the oldest church in the city is something you shouldn’t miss out. One Citytrip, three countries, countless memories.

Antwerp, Brussels and Nijmegen.

Antwerp, the jewel of the Nederrijn, is famous among other things for the Flemish Renaissance Revival architecture around Grote Markt Square in the city’s Old Town. Brussels more than just the political heart of Europe. Its historic districts have an architectural heritage that’s extraordinarily rich and diverse and are well-worth exploring. Nijmegen is over 2,000 years old, making it one of the most ancient cities in the Netherlands. The city by the Waal is home to the country’s oldest shopping street as well—Lange Hezelstraat. Do you know that it has highest-density of sidewalk cafés? That is one more reason to stop. Now you understand what we mean when we say that a stop in Nijmegen is a treat for mind and body alike.

Amsterdam

From Grachten Cruise to Golden Age

You can't go to Amsterdam and not take a boat ride through the canals known locally as "Grachten". We wouldn't recommend you miss the opportunity to go shopping in the Jordaan district, the most beautiful part of Amsterdam, either. Enjoy a guided tour of the world-famous Rijksmuseum, which was inaugurated in 1885. It remains the most commanding structure on the awe-inspiring Museumplein, a building fit to house one of the greatest collections of art in the world. Join us in marveling at the masterpieces of the Golden Age, of which Rembrandt's famous Night Watch is just one highlight.

Rotterdam

Harbor City Meets Modern Architecture

It's no secret that Rotterdam is Europe's largest seaport. It boasts a futuristic cityscape defined by innovative architecture, where the buildings panes reflect the passing clouds, adding to its distinctive charm. The spectacular Erasmus Bridge is an undisputed highlight. Fully 802 meters in length, the cable-stayed bridge's single, 138-meter-high pylon earned it the nickname de Zwaan ("the swan"). After getting your first breath of the seaport and city air, you are visiting the famous "Markthal", Rotterdam's Market Hall. It was completed in 2014 and covers the area of a football field. Would you like delicacies, fish, meat, cheese, poultry, vegetables, bread or fresh flowers? The Markthal's 100 stalls, 15 grocery stores, and eight restaurants ensure you'll always find what you're looking for and that it's always "lekker", as the Dutch are fond of saying.

Arnhem

Natural Paradise and Art-Lover's Dream

The region of Arnhem and the city itself are a nature experience with numerous parks ideal for taking a stroll, having a picnic, or just chilling out. Nevertheless, it only takes a short trip to Arnhem to convince anyone that it's also a hub of art and culture. One of the stops on our tour is the Kröller-Müller Museum, which opened in 1938 and is named after the renowned art collector Helene Kröller-Müller (1869 – 1939). It boasts the second largest collection of Van Gogh paintings in the world and is home to one of Europe's largest sculpture gardens, featuring some 11,500 exhibits from the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. The museum itself is located smack dab in the middle of Hoge Veluwe National Park, which covers nearly 5,500 hectares and encompasses wooded areas, heathland, prairie grass plains, and sand dunes. If you look closely, you might even see some of the deer, mouflon, or wild boar that live in the park.

EU Headquarters and a Destination for History Enthusiast

The capital of Europe is also a dream destination for enthusiast of history, art, and cultural events. Explore the multifaceted national capital of Belgium by bus and by foot. Our first stop is the world-famous, 102-meter-high Atomium. Then we're off to the European Quarter, which is remarkable both in terms of its political significance and modern architecture. After that we are visiting the Grande-Place. Departing the historic market square—which is lined by both by gorgeous, historic guild houses and an endless series of chocolateries, one more tempting than the next—we make our way to the famous Manneken Pis, a statue that has epitomized freedom of expression since 1619. After that you have plenty of time left to keep exploring the city at your own pace, go shopping, or lounge in a comfy café.

Excitement and Relaxation: Crime Cruise on VIVA TWO.

You can find out more about the authors and all the other highlights at www.viva-cruises.com/en/crimes-cruises.

People who have experienced one of our Crime Cruises are ready to confess: thrills and relaxation don't have to be mutually exclusive. While one of our authors is reading and the room gets so quiet that you can hear your heart pounding in your chest. That's what happens anytime Axel Petermann, Germany's top profiler, takes the stage. The Bremen native joins us onboard again in 2025 to present cases, investigations, and convictions that made criminal history. Renown actor Michael Miensopust's approach is a little different. More performance than reading, his production is no less spine tingling for it. An accompanying soundtrack played live on piano add incredible atmosphere to Miensopust's monologue. Join Anke Küpper's "Tea Time is Crime Time" as her crime short stories take you on a thrill ride through the homicidal half of her adopted home of Hamburg. Curious about Writing? Onboard Creative Writing Workshops

You like to write stories but find yourself intimidated by a blank page? Perhaps you’ve already got a bit of experience and want to hone your craft. Join our workshop on board for a deep-dive into the world of creative writing. Professional author Kathrin Hanke will be there to help you craft your own page-turner in a relaxing atmosphere. The only pre-requisite for participating in this workshop is an urge to write.

Back on Board: Axel Petermann – Germany’s Leading Profiler.

The original plan was for Axel to join the police force temporarily as an alternative to military service. But when he was assigned to investigate an unsolved murder one day that all changed. Not only would this turn out to be the only career Petermann ever pursued, he went on to become Germany’s most famous criminal profiler as well. After completing his detective squad training with the Bremen Police, Axel Petermann served as a criminal investigator from 1975 to 2014. As detective superintendent, he was head of a homicide unit for many years. He also served as deputy superintendent of the violent crimes division. In 1999, Petermann’s career took a turn that would eventually see him becoming one of the most prominent police officers in Germany—that’s when he began training to become a certified criminal investigative analyst and setting up his own offender profiling unit. In the meantime, Axel Petermann is the top investigative analyst in Germany and it will be a real treat to have him join us on our Crime Cruises again. When he gives a reading or presents a report, you can hear a pin drop. That’s because the stories he shares aren’t just suspense packed. The best-selling author and presenter uses real cases and real perpetrators to provide his audiences with singular insight into the minds of serial killers; explain the ins and outs of spectacular cases; and talk about what it’s like to work as a consultant for TV, the movies, and crime fiction authors. Axel Petermann will join us on 19.02.2025.

Andreas Schnurbusch

On board: VTWO37 (01.03. - 06.03.)

Interactive True-Crime Presentation: “How to Murder Your Mother-in-Law?”

Retired detective chief superintendent and crime fiction author Andreas Schnurbusch uses cartoons to illustrate how the murder of a mother-in-law would be investigated. Formerly a uniformed policeman, narcotics officer, and homicide investigator in Cologne, Schnurbusch reveals how realistic the depiction of crime scenes is on television and provides his expert insight on what the clues found at a crime scene can teach investigators. His examination of real cases shows just how difficult it actually is to commit a perfect crime. Is there something that all killers have in common? Are any of the people onboard naturally born criminals? Does your zodiac sign mean you are predestined for criminal activity? Get ready for unexpected questions and Andreas Schnurbusch’s astounding answers.

A Historical Crime Novel

Maren Bohm’s interest in literature and storytelling started at an early age. She has always been fascinated by times gone by, how they were both profoundly influential on society as we know it today while being totally unique moments in their own right. Upon earning her degree in German Studies, Theology and Philosophy, she went on to become a teacher at a secondary school for the subjects German and Religion. Maren Bohm is also an accomplished freelance author, several of whose novels have been published. Her historically accurate crime novels take listeners back in time about 900 years, deep into the Middle Ages. Normally, the setting is somewhere in southern Germany. Regensburg, Passau, Hilgartsberg on the Danube, and the Danube itself are only a few of the exciting locations—and crime scenes—featured in her novels.
